Fires blaze through city

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

A major fire swept across five acres and destroyed $25,000 worth of pallets at Drysdale and Sons, Inc. on Middlebelt Road last Wednesday afternoon.

Every fire truck from the four fire stations in Romulus was summoned to the scene, said Bob Pecsénye, assistant fire chief. "We called all our men. The fire departments from Taylor and Metro Airport each brought a pumper. Romulus used four front line pumpers, four mini pumpers and two rescue trucks. In all, 25 men fought the fire from the time we arrived at 2:30 p.m. until 9:30 p.m. when the fire was put out," he added.

There were no injuries. Romulus Fire Inspector Charles Bradley is investigating the cause of the fire.

Eyewitnesses described the fire as a "ball of fire with flames reaching 40-50 feet high." Westerly winds blew the fire from its origin near Middlebelt Road almost to Harrison Road, and firefighters fought the blaze from both sides.

"It got pretty hot. Strong winds hampered our efforts. But the fire could have gotten worse and out of control," he added.

A couple of buildings caught fire but were immediately extinguished when the first fire trucks arrived, according to Pecsénye. He estimates flames covered at least six acres and spread almost to Harrison Road, a half mile away.

Longtime resident is fatally injured

A longtime Romulus resident was struck and killed only 100 feet from his home of 36 years by an oncoming car Saturday night. Thomas Edward Chapman, 51, was pronounced dead-on-arrival at Westland Medical Center after the 9:30 p.m. incident. Detective Ken Kraus of the Romulus Police reported.

"The victim was walking eastbound on the north shoulder of Eureka Road near Huron River Drive. As is proper, he was facing traffic. For some reason, he either intentionally stepped out in traffic, or fell in front of a car. He was struck by an approaching car," said Kraus.

The driver of the car, William Blade of Belleville, immediately stopped. He nor the "couple occupants of his vehicle were injured. Nor was he drinking," said Kraus. There are no street lights and it was dark, he added.

Chapman was born in Hickory, North Carolina. He worked as an independent truck driver and was past member of the Masonic Lodge.

He is survived by his wife, Betty J., their three daughters, Vivian Smith, Virtie Chapman, Vernia Chapman and one son, Pickney Chapman. He had one grandchild. The children are all residents of Wyandotte.

He is also survived by his parents, Vivian and Pickney Chapman of Lake Wales, Florida; six brothers, Pickney of Taylor, Alex of Jackson, James of Jerome, Garland of California, Pledger of Alabama, Walter of Florida and one sister, Melva Austin of Florida.

Thefts mar week

Two armed robbers picked up some cash Friday night in Romulus.

In two separate incidents, according to Romulus police, an ice cream driver and a pizza delivery person were robbed.

At about 8:30 p.m., in a parking lot on Middlebelt Road, the driver of an ice cream truck was approached and robbed by a black male in his 30s. The driver was seated when the suspect produced a handgun and said amidst obscenities, "I want all your cash. The suspect then fled on foot," Detective Ken Kraus said.

Later that night about 12:15 a.m., a driver delivered a pizza to a home on Biddle Street. An unknown black male about 20 years old robbed the driver as he returned to his truck. No weapon was seen, "but the victim was under the impression the suspect had a gun," Kraus said.

Again, the suspect fled on foot. In both incidents there were no injuries, no witnesses and no shots fired. Police are still investigating.

Also over the weekend, three breaking and enterings were reported. The first occurred on Knollway in the Oakbrooke subdivision. An area resident reported to police that he returned home to find a broken window and torn screen.

Missing was a jewelry box with coins. The other breaking and entering took place on Pondway Street. Entry was gained through a window. A VCR is missing, the owner reported to police.

In the same general area, on Meadow Street, police responded to a residence where a window was dislodged and a TV, VCR and stereo system were reported missing. Romulus police detectives are continuing their investigation.

Outstanding Local teacher honored

The Washington Post newspaper, station WDIV and Newsweek magazine selected a Romulus science teacher as the outstanding teacher in Wayne County.

Holly Brommer is a special education teacher working with emotionally impaired students at Beacon School and she was recently selected as one of the top 12 high school teachers in the state. In addition to the pride of accomplishment and recognition, Brommer pocketed $2,000 in prize money as well. And next Tuesday, school officials will present her with an award during a special ceremony at the Ponchartrain Hotel in Detroit. Brommer will visit the Detroit Science Center at the end of the month where she will again be recognized for her accomplishments.

Brommer has taught biology and health at Beacon for the past five years. She established "Michigan's Discovery," a state-wide science fair for handicapped students last year.

Attendance at the fair doubled in size this year from 200 to 400 participants from around the state. "Response was real good," she admitted.

"Kids with emotional impairment often get overlooked. The fair is open to students of all ages from grades K-12 regardless of disability. Judges often comment that these projects are every bit as good or better than science fairs in other schools.

"Some kids are real good at putting things together with their hands. We work with students. There's a lot of preparation. When they're finished, each kid wins something, a ribbon, certificate or trophy. And they're proud. For some it's the biggest thing in their lives," she said.

Brommer attended Kent State University and graduated from Eastern Michigan University. She taught at schools in Plymouth and in the Wayne-Westland School districts before her career at Beacon.

She attended conferences in Washington D.C. and Detroit and discussed the science fair sponsorship. Brommer also offers in-service training on science to fellow teachers.

Six special secretaries

Six special secretaries from Romulus High School took an extra long lunch hour last Wednesday. In honor of Secretaries Day, the special six were whisked away in a luxury limosine to the Holidome where they were served a delicious lunch, compliments of their bosses, Principal E.L. Sheffield and assistant principals Jessie

Area stores don't sell to minors

While an underage female decoy was unable to purchase alcohol at any of the 10 different locations she visited last week, Romulus Police Chief Charles Wilmoth is claiming success in the "sting" operation.

Super J, Romulus Liquor, Sunlight Market, Top Shelf, Ted's IGA, Super 4, Dairy Bar, Super J, Ecorse Market and Tropicana, all declined to sell alcohol to the undercover decoy last Wednesday evening.

"We plan on doing more until we are confident local businesses will not sell alcohol to minors. This is especially important with high school graduation coming in June and the kids turning to drinking," said Wilmoth who spoke to high school seniors earlier last week regarding Project Graduation which promotes drinking awareness among seniors.

Two other "sting operations" have been conducted this year which resulted in several tickets being issued. In January, police visited 11 stores and ticketed five. The next month, they purchased alcohol in six of seven local stores.

The maximum penalty in the city of Romulus is 90 days in jail and/or a $100 fine. Violators would also receive tickets from the State Liquor Control Commission where the fine is $1,000.

After the previous sting operations, Wilmoth mailed letters of appreciation to those businesses who did not sell alcohol to the underage decoy.

The Poppy Day sale reminds Americans to pay tribute to veterans who served their country so well.

Fourth of July parade discussed

A Fourth of July Parade might become a reality this year if Mayor Beverly McAnally and members of the Romulus Recreation Commission have their way. So far, only the Veterans of Foreign Wars have expressed an interest in participating. Although no parade was conducted last year, city officials feel there is enough community support for the idea. The city sponsored a picnic and fireworks last year. This year they want a parade, according to McAnally.

Fire

"It was 100 yards short. It shot through the woods and behind into a field," he added.

Gene Drysdale, Jr., one of the five sons in ownership with his father said the family was "very pleased with the fine performance of the Romulus department." His father founded the business near that site 33 years ago. The family home on that site was not damaged by fire.

"Two years ago, a major fire on five acres smoldered for two days. We lost $45,000 worth of pallets. This time, only 60,000 pallets worth $25,000 were destroyed. Most of the pallets were in pretty rough shape. But we had no insurance. Pallet manufacturing companies are not easily insured," Drysdale said.

"We were happy here. We can't cry about it. You have to grin and bear it. Clean up should take a good three weeks. All we can do is get back to work. We'll just start over," he said.

Several fires have plagued the community of Romulus during the past several days. One week before the pallet fire, Romulus fireman extinguished a pile of burning tires behind the Romulus Department of Public Works Building.

"It was a major fire and difficult to extinguish," said Pecsenye. At that time, three stations in Romulus were summoned.

"I have no idea why there are all these fires. They run in spurts. We may go for months without any fire calls."

Several days previously, local firemen arrived at the Mendrick dump south of Ecorse Road near the railroad tracks. "That only took a couple of hours to put out," he said.

Fire broke out in an abandoned house on Middlebelt Road the day after firemen put out the burning pallets.

"I have no idea why there are all these fires. They run in spurts. We may go for months without any fire calls," he added.

The Romulus fire department at full-strength counts 53 volunteers. The department is currently operating without a full-time fire chief.

"Usually at this time of year, small grass fires and car fires are ordinary. But these latest fires have been major," he said.

Company interest

Jobs bank counts on people

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

After 10 years of working at Chevrolet-Pontiac-Canada in Romulus, Mary Barrentine found herself in the company of 325 other General Motors employees at the Ecorse Road facility, in a jobs bank. She likes it.

So do most of her co-workers. While many are performing non-traditional duties in other departments inside the plant, others are venturing into the community where they are providing assistance in Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally's office or at the recreation center. Some employees are traveling throughout the state learning new skills or expanding old ones.

General Motors initiated the innovative program two years ago in 31 company plants throughout the United States and Canada. The Romulus facility was among the first to offer the program. The company counts 975 hourly employees. Twenty in jobs bank are salaried.

"When work is outsourced to

"We're looking more critically at the resources we have. The people involved are totally committed. Our production workers are experts in their field as well as professional."

non GM companies, instead of laying employees off, we try to find other less traditional jobs within the company or even outside in the community," explained Bob Kraus, CPC personnel director in Romulus. General Motors built the plant in 1975. One year later, a medium duty, two-cycle, 8.2 diesel engine for buses, trucks and tractors rolled off the local assembly line. But in 1980 the market for this engine "dried-up" and many equipment manufacturers went defunct," Kraus noted.

The Romulus plant operated at 35 percent capacity in the years that followed. Company officials determined the plant would close. In September of 1985, Detroit Diesel Allison, the former plant name, announced the plant would be resized and eventually shut down, Kraus said.

That fall, management and labor from the Romulus facility formed a joint management team and a union contract was negotiated so that the plant would remain open.

CPC is now retooling machines and expanding production areas. By October, a new product, the 4.3 V-6 gasoline engine will be manufactured there.

"A jobs bank is formed to protect people when their work is lost to outsourcing or technological changes. The jobs bank in Romulus is among the largest in the country. People stay in the bank until we can use them any way we can. They're not there sitting," he explained.

Many jobs bank employees have helped design major machinery. "They give their input and explain how they want the machine built. This is a tremendous quality savings. Who knows better about how to operate the equipment than these people," he added.

Other employees in the jobs bank operate computers, some work in the cafeteria and a few might even be found rototilling a three-acre vegetable garden on company property.

"We're looking more critically at the resources we have. The people involved are totally committed. Our production workers are experts in their field as well as professional. We're taking a whole different look at the way we produce a product," Kraus concluded.

I remember Mildred

My mother, Mildred, is about 10 years older than Dr. Benjamin Spock. I reveal that highly classified information only so you will understand that she began her career in parenthood long before the good doctor published his epic tome on the correct psychological methods for handling offspring.

My mother had her own style. It included a number of methods which probably would have set the doctor, and others, back a few paces, but she was effective, no doubt about it.

To say I was a difficult child would be somewhat akin to referring to the Pacific as a large puddle. I was a monster. My mother, however, dealt with me and never, ever lost control...of me, that is. Mildred admittedly lost control of herself several times. Looking back, who could blame her?

Her well-honed and practiced system of child rearing included knowing her enemy as well as herself, and using whatever means possible to effect the desired end. It was simple. First she threatened me, when that didn't work, a good smack up alongside the head usually did the job. But if intimidation and physical violence didn't work, she had the ultimate weapon. She lied.

She lied about just about everything, and got the results she desired nearly all the time. It was my mother who convinced me during my pubescent days that dishwasher would make my fingernails grow and, therefore, washing dishes was something necessary to my improved good looks. She is also the person who told me, without so much as a hint of a smile, that pushing the lawnmower would build up my bosom. (We had the shortest grass on the block.)

One of her most famous lines, second only to, "Stop bawling or I'll give you something to really bawl about," was her by now infamous claim that the glare of street lights would give you cancer. This in an effort to guarantee my safe arrival in the house before those life-threatening illuminations could catch me.

She is a gem. Today, I remark on what a creative mind like hers could have accomplished had she had the opportunity for education that she afforded me. I remember so many things about my mother these days that all seemed a blur until now.

All the things my mother did to ruin my life seem almost laughable now, like the time she made me wear saddle shoes with my best dress to school. I was psychologically scarred for life by that crime. My younger son bears the same type of scar, and he recently reminded me that my greatest crime was my insistence that he wear dress pants to school while other children got to wear jeans. He claims that I dressed him too well and thereby ruined his childhood.

My sons have numerous other complaints about my conduct as a parent, as I had about my mother's. But now, I understand. It is only as sue willett speaking

my own children go forth into the world and leave the tremendous void that only children can create with their departure that I can understand that my mother was a woman doing her best to raise me during difficult times in her life.

It is only now that I have really grown up and have time to look at my life as an adult that I understand the pain and sacrifice that she made for me and am able to realize that all the mistakes she may have made were based in love—a love that only mothers can ever know.

The special love that mothers feel is often written about and idealized...but it is only as maturity comes that we begin to understand that there is a price that only mothers pay for that love. There is no pain comparable to that every mother knows and no heartbreak to compare with her grief. Motherhood, I've come to know, is a two-edged sword. The rewards are beyond description, as is the pain.

Sunday will be Mothers' Day, and this one will be special for me. Not because my sons may show up with a potted plant, or a card motivated primarily by obligation and media hype, but because for the first time my gift and cards to my mother will be from a heart which overflows with gratitude and understanding.

She did the best she could with the knowledge and information she had. The small sacrifices she made each day were from absolute devotion to me, and her mistakes seem, now, so insignificant in comparison.

I am truly amazed at my selfishness and that of all children who may never really understand the depth of emotion, caring and genuine love that only mothers know.

It seems we feel that because she was always willing to sacrifice for us that it became our right and our due. We begin to feel that because she gave up such a huge portion of her life and herself for us, that we have some divine right to all her devotion and love.

My mother, I now understand, is human. She knew such hardships, such difficulty in her life, and still, I nearly always came first. I owe my mother a special debt as she, after rather unceremoniously rescuing me from conditions less than desirable, adopted me and reared me with more devotion and love than had I been her natural child. Mildred is a special woman, a special human being, a most of all, a very special mother. Happy Mother's Day, Mom. I love you.

Memories to spare

Shortly after I was born, my father and grandfather decided to take advantage of a business opportunity, and together they purchased "Riviera Recreation." That was the name of a 14-lane bowling alley that was located on Grand River in Detroit.

My memories of their years of proprietorship in that business, had an impact on me in ways I am still discovering.

As I grew older, I spent more and more time around my dad and grandfather in their business world. In doing so, I learned more than I realized about the realities of being self-employed.

I remember well the long hours both men spent in pursuit of survival as well as success. I remember the employees and customers who became friends. I remember the semi-humans with whom they were forced to deal as employees and obnoxious customers.

In the days before automatic pin setters, alleys employed men who set pins using a rack affair that set the 10 wooden-shaped cylinders on their spots with as much speed and precision as any mechanical contraption conceived and built in the 1940s could muster.

Some of those who worked setting pins were school age boys, but many were older men who spent as much of their leisure time as possible "testing the grape," as they say.

Riviera Recreation was a 14 lane alley in a day before the super bowling houses when 14 lanes was a big place. Some of the top bowlers in the country were brought in to stage exhibitions before a packed house.

Andy Verapapa was the master, who would roll a ball through arches set up midway down the alley, culminating in a strike every time...well almost every time. Andy would roll two balls at once, one with the left and one with the right. And on it went. It was like a circus.

Number two star on the circuit was Ned Day. Once when Day was coaching some of the bowlers after one of his spectacular demonstrations, he spotted a lad of 6 who had spent about 15 minutes rolling gutter balls. Day decided to coach the upstart, walking him through the proper swing, footwork and timing.

After a few minutes of this hands-on tutoring, the kid decided that he now had the drift, and he was ready to try on his own once again. Now I should explain that this upstart was using a tiny ball normally held in the palm of a man's hand and used to hammer down "Duck Pins." Of course, this one was customized and had his name engraved in it, along with tiny specially-drilled finger holes. The boy picked up his duck ball, stared down the lane, and after a moment's pause, started to move. As he released his midget orb, it began its long journey toward the 10 pin. A crowd had formed during this entire adventure, and as the 10 pins came crashing down, a cheer went up from the spectators, followed by applause.

To prove that this was no fluke, the young man decided to try another. There was a long wait as the ball was set to roll by the pinsetter hidden from view in the dark behind the tall velvet curtain. Back it came alone the exposed runners. No underground ball returns in those days.

The crowd remained attentive in great anticipation. Then the whole thing repeated itself, strike included. A sports reporter from the Detroit News found the episode interesting and wrote about it a few days later. "Young David Willett rolled two strikes after coaching from Ned Day" the article told readers. Big stuff for a kid of 6.

My brother and I used to set pins in later years for each other to break the boredom of hanging around the alley. Climbing the ladder to the sort of crows nest suspended high above the alleys to watch for fouls was another adventure. There were no electric eyes announcing foul line trespassing in those days.

Mayor's secretary expresses 'thanks'

To the Editor:
Words will never properly express my sincere appreciation for all of your cards, encouragement, caring and love you have shown to me and my daughters during these last three weeks.

I learned a long time ago that none of us can exist without friends; and you have certainly reinforced that belief. I count each and every one of you as a special blessing in my life—your kindness and support will be long-remembered.

I am very pleased with the efforts put forth to collect 121 pints of blood, and I thank all of you who were able to participate for giving the "gift of life."

I am progressing well, and each day gives me added strength. I am anxious to return to work and to see and talk to all of you—I miss you all very much. But most importantly, I give you my heartfelt thanks for being my friends.

Council salaries 'not adequate'

To The Editor:

Your front page story—April 22, Wayne Eagle—on the decision not to increase the salaries of the mayor and city councilmen of Wayne provokes this response from one businessman who has had many opportunities to work with local government.

I'm firmly convinced that these elected officials do not seek office in Wayne for compensation but to contribute to making a better community. Wayne is a very well-run city, thanks to Mayor Norton, the council and city administration. The time our elected officials put into their jobs far exceeds the return they get in the form of compensation mentioned in your article.

I take strong exception to the conclusion that "local politician salaries are adequate for the job done." The money may be adequate to the officials who don't run for office for money in the first place, but it is woefully inadequate for the quality of their efforts and their concern.

Fact: Road vote wins by 10 votes.

Fact: Citizens ask for recount on school election.

Fact: No recount on road vote.

Fact: School election helps educate future leaders.

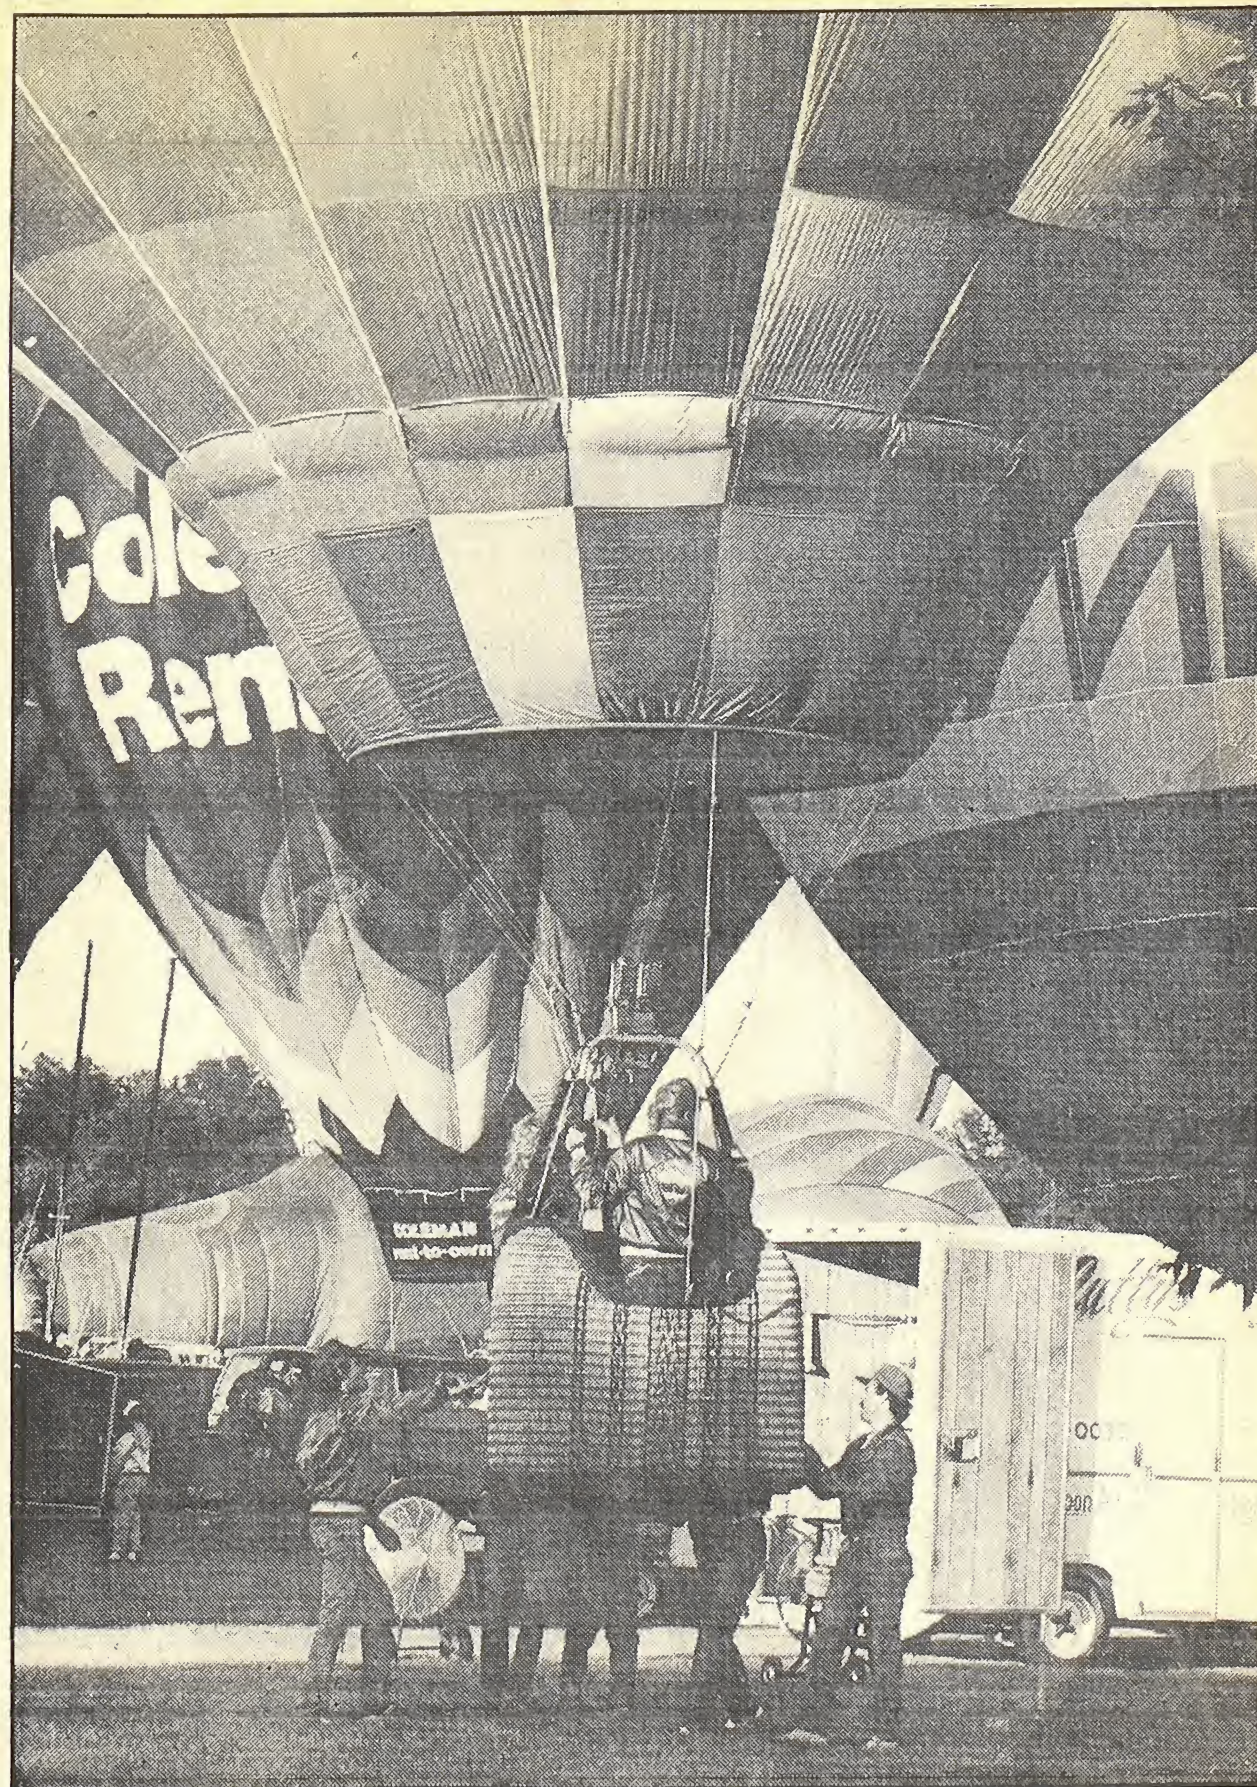

Fact: Road vote fixes roads.

Question: Where are our priorities?

The candy counter from which we would frequently help ourselves, the pool and billiard tables which we used when there were no paying customers, and in the early 50s came the television mounted on the wall, still very much a novelty.

My memories, good and bad go on. My grandfather's invention of the bowling ball cleaner, the windows painted black due to the war blackout, checking coats on league nights, and on it goes.

So what if anything do these memories mean today?

We know now that we start to learn from our environment of things, people, and events at a very early age. We observe the patterns, habits, and attitudes of those around us, those we look up to, those we chose as role models.

In my case it has become apparent that I feel comfortable, or at least as comfortable as anyone can be, in the role of entrepreneur and risk taker.

Like nearly all of us, I was exposed to a pattern in my youth. My father and my grandfather were role models to me. They took risks, were in business for themselves, and even more tangible today than the memories of the bowling alley itself, is the influence these men had on my thinking during my most formative years. I wonder, sometimes, what I might have become had they been, say, doctors, lawyers, ministers or factory workers. Would I, then, too have molded myself in that image?

It is one thing to follow in footsteps of another because of parental or societal pressure, economic advantage, or fear of straying from family norms.

What happens to us, I believe, is that we develop a comfort level with a lifestyle, including pressure points, income advantages and disadvantages, and all other manner of life role idiosyncrasies.

"You can get used to hanging...if you hang long enough," explained a great philosopher of my acquaintance. What I am saying is that I think we subconsciously develop a tolerance for a way of life, and that tolerance very often determines, or at least contributes, to the life we choose.

A tendency to work for others runs deep within, and so does the entrepreneurial spirit. We can change our inclinations when situations or logic demands. But we would all due well to look deep into the mirror, and recognize the color and shape of our "spots".

Once we see ourselves as we are, reflect on how we got that way, we decide how best to seek happiness and prosperity. Often our memories are not simply spare baggage, but rather strike at the very essence of who and what we are, pinning us to a certain field of career choices.

After the bowling alley, my dad realized a life-long dream and became co-owner of Associated Newspapers. Need I say more? See you next week.

Changes in voter registration opposed by local lawmakers

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

Michigan Secretary of State Richard Austin recently proposed changes in the way local communities handle voting registrations, and dozens of local city clerks are sending the state official a reply that they are declining his offer.

Austin, in an address delivered in March, proposed that the state lawmakers approve a measure that would convert voter registrations to a county-wide system, instead of community-wide. According to the Secretary of State, the plan would reduce the number of registration jurisdictions from 1,775 to only 91, an idea he feels would increase efficiency.

The 91 districts, Austin said, would be created by giving each of the 83 Michigan counties the power to issue voter registrations as well as eight large cities, including Ann Arbor, Detroit, Flint, Grand Rapids, Lansing, Livonia, Sterling Heights and Warren. Austin's proposal would also:

- Create deputy registrars in each of the 91 districts. City, township and village clerks would be granted automatic authority to function as deputy registrars.
- Allow registrations to be transferrable between a county and a city functioning as a registration jurisdiction within the county.
- Allow cities in more than one county to have registrations administered by the county which contains the most city residents.

• Allow an elector who has moved from one precinct to another within the same county who failed to submit an address change to vote one last time in the precinct where he was registered.

• And give the 91 registration officials all voter registration applications executed in Secretary of State branch offices to process and execute and be responsible for forwarding all registration cancellation authorizations executed under the program.

Austin said that the program would be a plus, compared to the current system, in that voters could be transient and still be allowed to vote. He also explained that efficiency in avoiding duplicated registrations could be achieved, and files could be kept more up-to-date.

The state official explained that the Michigan has more voter registration districts than any other state in the union. Maine has the next highest number - 501 jurisdictions.

But the local communities aren't willing to jump on the bandwagon in the idea just yet. According to Wayne City Clerk Norma Collop, Austin's proposal leaves a lot of questions unanswered and fails to address funding of the plan.

Collop, a member of the Michigan Municipal Clerks Association, joined her colleagues in listing reasons to decline the offer. Among these were:

- No state-assured funding.

Quick to oppose

Several local city council members were quick to oppose the idea of a change in voter registrations, after the idea was first presented to them last month.

Many of the reasons behind the opposition, according to one city clerk, focus on the fact that the change would be costly, invite fraud and make the recent computerization efforts of several municipalities meaningless.

Among the communities to adopt a resolution opposing the change in voter registration are:

- City of Wayne. Approved on unanimous 7-0 vote.
- City of Inkster. Approved on 6-1 vote.
- Township of Plymouth. Approved on unanimous 7-0 vote.
- City of Southgate. Approved on unanimous vote.
- City of Westland.
- City of Trenton.
- City of Romulus.

• Equipment to produce a facsimile signature would be essential for local clerks who would no longer have local log books to depend upon.

• No retention of a 30-day registration deadline.

• No clear answer on what authority would, in the end, be responsible for certifying registered voters.

"The state just kind of snuck this one up on us. We have a lot of questions, and a lot of the surrounding communities are adopting resolutions opposing it," Collop said. "I think there are too many unknowns right now."

Senior prescription bill will be 'a plus'

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

Area seniors who may have possibly foregone a prescription or two because of high prices may have financial relief in sight soon, thanks to a bill recently introduced that may provide state funding for prescriptions.

State Rep. Justin Barns (D-Westland) and Rep. Tom Matheiu (D-Grand Rapids) are cosponsors of House Bill 4141 that will provide state-funded prescriptions to seniors who may otherwise will not be eligible for medical assistance. According to Barns, such a plan is long overdue and has already been highly applauded by local seniors during a public hearing on the issue in Westland last month.

"Its purpose is to pay the pharmacy bills for one single person who is 62 years or older, has limited assets and not more than $9,000 in annual income."

Barns said of the proposal. "Medical bills quite often become so expensive that seniors can't afford to pay. We're talking about those people who have high medical bills, so high that their families many times consider putting them in a convalescent home so that the expenses will be paid."

Barns blasted such an aspect of society and use of nursing homes, saying that a better alternative must exist. According to the state legislator, the program will cost the state between $22 and $49 million to fund each year.

Under the proposed prescription plan, Barns said, seniors will be asked to complete a form of eligibility. About one-half of the seniors who apply are probably eligible for Medicaid federal assistance, Barns said, and will be directed to the proper agencies. Those seniors who do not qualify for other health care assistance, she continued, will be the seniors targeted in the current state House bill.

A similar bill was introduced and passed in the House last year, Barns said. However, the bill died in the state Senate when it recessed last December.

Barns expected the proposal to come out of committee yesterday and clear the House floor later next week. She is hoping to see the bill become a law before the end of 1988.

Once approved, she said, funding for the program would be allocated in the 1988-89 budget. Seniors will begin to benefit from the program on Oct. 1 1988.

Frustrated secretary wanted and got her desk returned retarial), and they wanted it now. Too busy and too tired to keep working on the problem, they turned it over to The Letter Writer.

Your responses to my column are appreciated. Please continue to keep in touch with me at 42245 Ann Arbor Road, Suite 109LL, Plymouth, Michigan 48170. 455-8892, 35540 W. Michigan Ave., Suite 206, Wayne, Michigan 48184. 326-0060.

Dear Furniture Store:

On Feb. 19, 1985, your company picked up a secretarial desk from our office in Utica, Mich. You indicated to me, at that time, that you would return the desk on or about Feb. 26, 1985.

letter writer of the above has come to pass and it is now April 2, 1985.

Please accept this letter as notification that if I do not hear from you by Friday, April 5, 1986, I shall seek legal counsel. Your unprofessional and inconsiderate actions have caused me financial damages as well as disruption in office functions.

Sincerely, Mrs. H.

RESOLUTIONS AND COMMENTS

Within five days of mailing the letter, the furniture store returned the desk.

This relatively simple consumer problem is of the type that cause all of us irritation and frustration every day.

Mrs. H. did a fine job of logging her attempts to reach the furniture store and created a diary of the situation. This information would have been invaluable to her had she filed a claim. NOTE: When you have a problem, keep a record of how you tried to solve it.

The furniture store did irreparable damage to itself by its negligence. By refusing to return the phone calls and also obviously ignoring the problem, they left a "taste" in Mrs. H's mouth that will never go away. Mrs. H. will tell everyone she knows about the store which will hurt their business. Simple courtesy should have dictated some public relations. The owners should have called Mrs. H., but maybe the owner didn't know what was happening. That's another problem.

Saturday in park will stop traffic

The trees are green, wildflowers are beginning to bud and spring is in the air. There can't be any doubt of the effect sunshine has on the human disposition, particularly in the best of all seasons, spring.

Once again this year, the Wayne County Park System will respond to the song of spring as a six-mile section of Hines Drive is closed to traffic and devoted exclusively to those who wish to enjoy the fresh air, sunshine and spirit of the season.

Last year, park officials provided special facilities for a number of groups to host special outings for members, and spokesmen expect to utilize park area in this manner again this year. The park will remain open to the public at all times for the enjoyment of nature, they stressed.

There is playground equipment available in several areas for use by those taking advantage of the "Saturday In The Park" program which will close the park to traffic until Sept. 26. Traffic is prohibited from Warrendale, a picnic area just west of Outer Drive, to the Nankin Mills Station, located at Ann Arbor Trail and Edward Hines Drive.

Traffic will be allowed through the area before 9 a.m. and after 3:30 in the afternoon.

MIRACULOUS MOTHERS

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

Special mothers are usually nominated for honors by their youngsters, but a Belleville mother of five received her nomination from her mother.

Jody Ihlenfeldt of Savage Road was selected as the Belleville area mother of the year by Associated Newspapers after being nominated by her mother, Marcelle Matthews, also of Belleville.

Jody and her husband, Paul, are the parents of Yvette, 9; Aundrea, 7; Gretchen, 6; Hans, 3, and Heidi, 2. The two oldest children attend classes at St. Anthony's School in Belleville.

The young mother of five, according to the letter, "does all of her own cooking, canning, house cleaning, laundry, windows and grocery shopping for seven" and also drives the children to "the doctor, dentist, hospital, dancing, piano lessons, swimming, tennis and shopping." She also sews "from scratch" Halloween costumes for each child.

In addition, her mother pointed out, Jody Ihlenfeldt bakes a birthday cake for each child "decorated as beautifully as any bakery and also bakes cakes for others." She makes exotic dishes for home entertaining and treats her mother and daughters to an annual banquet, according to Matthews.

"A strict household rule," the letter stated. "is that all the family must eat together at meal times."

Jody Ihlenfeldt has been the leader of a Brownie Troop at St. Anthony's School for the past four years and regularly plans activities and crafts for the 16 members.

She was born and raised in Belleville. The Ihlenfeldts moved away for two years but moved back to the area to raise their family.

Although her daily schedule seems hectic, Jody Ihlenfeldt finds some time to relax by doing needlepoint, oil painting and golfing with her husband. She also takes piano and tennis lessons.

Make mom a day fit for a queen

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

Mom. The word has become synonymous with baseball, apple pie and the few other great institutions of American society.

Mom. The word has signaled a yearly exodus to the local gift galleries to find a gift fitting for the woman who gave us life.

Mom. The word has garnered such an important place in the heart of modern America that each year the consumer is willing to spend more and more to pamper her on her annual day.

Mom. How do I love thee? Let the merchants count the ways, so to speak.

David Zuckerman, co-owner of Leo's Jewelry & Gifts in Wayne, has been observing children finding fitting gifts for their mothers for 40 years now. Zuckerman said he has seen mother's day cards vary in size, price, design and style. He has seen precious gemstones for mom increase and decrease in popularity from year to year. And he has seen one tribute to mom keep up with the times and the new era of the 1980s. The mother's ring.

"The mother's ring is probably the most popular gift to get a mother. We have them in 10-carat and 14-carat gold, and each has the birthstone of each child and the mother herself," Zuckerman explained. "I think mother's rings have been popular since there have been mothers. We even have people having their pet's birthstones put in the rings."

But what about the year after the year you got your mother the coveted mother's ring? Not to fear, said Zuckerman.

"Figurines are extremely popular now. We have Precious Moments and Hummels. The rush starts about two weeks before mother's day and continues right up to the day," Zuckerman explained. "What makes them popular is that a lot of mothers appreciate the thought behind them. They become a special part of their lives. Mothers are easy to please."

To make mom a part of the "in" crowd, the mother's ring will cost the gift-giver anywhere from $70 to $300, Zuckerman said. The figurines? Well, $20 will make mom the owner of one. And so will $200. The figurines vary in price almost as much as the figurines themselves, the local retailer said.

But money isn't everything in gift-giving, Zuckerman admitted. Small trinkets are always popular with the female crowd, and when the thought is the thing that counts, a card is appropriate, he said. However, those hoping to lay their hands on the average 50 cent mother's day card of 10 years ago had better be ready to hand over a few extra bucks this year.

Romulus Tyree's kids are special

A grown man from Romulus nominated his mother as the best mother in town. It's a real possibility.

Jean Tyree admits her two children are "extra special." Her son Tim, 21, a General Motors assembly line worker, recently seriously injured his hand and "from March to October, my mom was my hands," he wrote Associated Newspapers.

Jean has worked full-time as a custodian in Romulus schools since Tim started first grade. She and her husband of 26 years, Ron, also have a daughter Ginger, 25. Ron is a foreman at Willow Run Airport. They have lived in Romulus for 20 years.

"Ron and I and the kids work together. We've always gotten along real well. We've been close. Vacations were always spent together. And now Sundays are usually the day everyone comes over and we barbe-cue. The kids even swing by sometimes on Saturday," she said.

The 1987 Romulus Mother of the Year will receive a $25 gift certificate for flowers from Rush's Flowers, 30617 Henry Ruff Road, Romulus.

Westland Mother nominates Foley

Marion Foley of Westland received an unexpected honor from her daughter-in-law, Linda Foley of Belleville, when she learned that Linda had nominated her as the top mother in the area.

"Oh, I don't feel deserving," the Westland honoree said when she was informed that she had been named 1987 Westland Mother of the Year. "But, I do try to get along well with all the members of my family."

She said that she had a phone call from her daughter-in-law earlier in the day, but Linda had not told her about the nomination.

In her letter, Linda Foley said her mother-in-law "has been my mother for nine years and she has taught me the meaning of love. In these nine years she has been my friend, comforter, nurse, advisor, confidante and a 'true mother' to me. I feel just as much a daughter as her two birth daughters," Linda wrote.

"She deserves this honor more than anyone I know," she concluded.

The Westland honoree will receive a $25 gift certificate for flowers from Jacqui Jan-El Florist, 2724 S. Newburgh Road in Westland.

Inkster Martin is a superstar

The mothers of superstars captured the limelight Sunday night as television brought to the little screen some of the big names of the famous in the world of entertainment and sports.

But, to the "Martin kids" in Inkster, their superstar is their mother, Virginia.

And for many reasons. Mrs. Martin, who moved to Inkster in 1948, raised her four children after her husband passed away from a fatal heart attack at the age of 39 in 1958.

Employed at City Hall since 1957, Mrs. Martin managed to raise her children and watched them become "loving individuals and caring persons."

Raising a family and working at the same time hasn't been easy admits the accounting clerk III. "but, I believe I instilled in my children the respect for human life and property. Like most families, we have had our ups-and-downs, but I have never stopped loving them."

The Martin children: Michael, Barbara, Diane and Charles (Chuck) have their own families now.

The Inkster Mother of the Year will receive a $25 gift certificate for flowers from Shirley Deans, 29230 Michigan.

Wayne Collop is active mom.

Norma Collop, mother of 10 and grandmother of 16, "doesn't look a day over 40," according to her daughter, Laura, who nominated her for the 1987 Wayne Mother of the Year.

Norma Collop

Laura Collop describes her mother as "being in several activities." For example, Laura wrote, she is a writer of children's stories and has painted some 50 portraits. She has recently joined a church choir and enjoys singing.

Norma also has crocheted 16 baby blankets - one for each of her grandchildren.

The main concerns of her mother, Laura said, are helping out her family and working at her daily job as city clerk of Wayne.

"I would just like to thank my mother for all that she has done and wish her a very happy and relaxing Mother's Day," Laura concluded in her letter. Her nomination as Mother of the Year came as a surprise for Norma Collop who said she was surprised but also very appreciative that her daughter had nominated her and that she had been selected for the honor.

The Wayne honoree lives on Sims Street in Wayne.

A $25 gift certificate for flowers from Wayne Florist, 34200 Michigan Ave., Wayne, will be presented to the Wayne honoree.

Canton Styles is one of the best

When Jill Styes of Heritage Court in Canton Township penned the letter nominating her mother, Lorna Styles, as 1987 Mother of the Year, she addressed the letter "to my mom."

Jill wrote, "I am writing this letter to explain how great you really are. I think you are the best because you love and care about me.

"I have chores and things to do around the house and that is because you care about me and you don't want me to grow up to be irresponsible. I can't do whatever I want because you

Anyone can think their mom is the best if she does their wash and lets them do whatever they want to do. I know my mom's the best (with two exclamation points and a smiley face).

Lorna Styles expressed surprise when she learned that Jill had submitted the winning entry for Canton Township, but she added, "It is really nice to know that she feels this way."

Lorna Styles will receive a $25 gift certificate for Mother's Day flowers from Keller-Stein, 42158 Michigan, Wayne.

The work is hard. But the rewards are infinite.

The Archdiocese of Detroit has a job to do. We know some people who are facing tough choices in life who need good advice. We know some people who are facing no choices who still need hope. We know a lot of great kids who need a place to be kids, and maybe someone to bring the ball or the music. We know a few older people who are going to die whether or not someone is there to bring them peace.

All over the Archdiocese there are people who need a place to count their blessings and share their sorrows—people who need a hand, or a shoulder to lean on, or sometimes just an ear.

At Sacred Heart Seminary we're teaching young men to use the hands and shoulders and ears and hearts God gave them. It's a great education. A college degree. Graduate work. We'll give you up to eight years to decide you really want to be a priest before we ask you to do it for good.

Sure, the hours are long. But they're flexible. And if you come to work here, you'll get rich in ways few people can imagine.

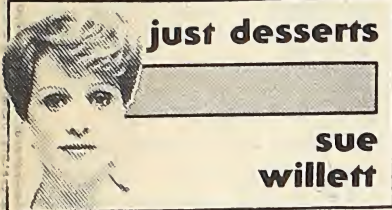

Not everyone can do the job. If you think you can, call us. We can't call you.

Lindy's cheesecake

This recipe has been represented as the genuine article and the original Lindy's cheesecake. Having sampled Lindy's, I'm tempted to believe the claim, although this one really is richer, a little heavier and the texture seems much better than the stuff Lindy's is passing off today as the real thing. This one, I'll swear by.

9 inch springform pan, buttered

- CRUST:
 1 cup all-purpose flour
 1/4 cup sugar
 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
 1/4 teaspoon vanilla
 1 egg yolk
 1 stick butter
 ice water, if necessary

Preheat the oven to 400 degrees.

Prepare dough by combining flour, sugar, lemon peel and vanilla. Make a well in the center and add the egg yolk and butter. Work together quickly with a pastry blender or your hands. Frankly, you can put the whole mess in the electric mixer and let it do the work, but don't say I told you so. Add 1-2 teaspoons ice water if necessary to bind the dough. Wrap the dough in waxed paper and chill thoroughly, at least one hour. Don't dare skip this step or you will have such a mess on your hands, literally.

Remove the ring from the springform pan and roll one-third of the dough about 1/8 inch thick and place over the bottom of the pan. Trim the edge and bake in the preheated oven 12 to 15 minutes until a light golden brown. Cool. Place the springform sides over the baked base. Roll the remaining dough 1/8 inch thick and cut to fit the sides of the pan, pressing firmly to fit and seal the base. Trim the dough to come only 3/4 up the sides.

- FILLING
 5 8-ounce package cream cheese (make sure it's fresh)
 1 3/4 cup sugar
 3 tablespoons all purpose flour
 5 eggs
 2 egg yolks
 1 1/2 teaspoons lemon peel or zest
 1 1/2 teaspoons orange peel or zest
 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
 1/4 cup heavy cream

Turn the oven up to 550 degrees.

Cream the cheese with the sugar and flour until very smooth. Add the eggs and the two extra yolks one at a time and blend well. Add the flavorings and cream, mix well and pour into the prepared springform crust. Bake at 550 degrees for 10-12 minutes, then reduce temperature to 200 degrees and continue to bake for one hour. Cool the cake to room temperature before glazing or serving.

STRAWBERRY GLAZE

- 1 quart strawberries, washed, hulled and drained
 2 teaspoons cornstarch
 1/4 cup water
 3/4 cup sugar
 pinch salt
 1 teaspoon butter

Cover the top of the cooled cake with the best, firm strawberries. Crush about a cup of the remaining strawberries and place in saucepan. Dissolve the cornstarch in the water and then add to the saucepan with the sugar and salt. Boil gently for about 2 minutes, stirring constantly over medium heat. Remove from heat and stir in the butter. Cool, then carefully spoon over the berry-topped cake.

This will be spectacular looking, if you have followed directions. It will also win you the adoration of all who taste your effort. It really is worth every bit of trouble, and should provide about 12 servings. Enjoy!

'The Healthy Cook' shares secret of success

By BOB DENYS
 ANP Staff Writer

Audiences throughout Metro Detroit religiously tune in a television program called "The Healthy Cook," featuring Romulus resident, Gwen Sibert.

With crusader-like determination, in front of the camera, vegetarian Sibert preaches healthy diets through good nutrition. She talks about whole grain cereals, soybeans, Tofu, pickled plum paste and edible sea weed. "Seasoning makes the difference," she stated.

But behind the scenes in her Essex Street home, she fights even more diligently against social and political injustices. "What I'd like to get across is I care about other people," she said.

Sibert's dark brown eyes look at life more seriously than most people's. Although her personality and sense of humor capture even the first-time viewer, this local television star harbors a sincere desire to help people and make a difference with her life.

She recently completed a 47-day fast and lost 47 pounds. She ate absolutely nothing during the first 27 days and drank only spring water. "During this time, the body burns off fat. After this time, the body begins to consume itself. Because of women's different cycles, I had to be careful fasting. I wanted to do something for the starving kids in Africa. I wanted to feel like they feel. What else can you do but use yourself as a sacrifice to raise awareness. I was hungry all 47 days," she said.

If this sounds like something civil rights activist Dick Gregory would do, it's no coincidence. Sibert called him on the 27th day of her fast. Gregory has successfully fasted for 160 days.

"He suggested I drink the juice of one carrot, beet and celery if I wanted to continue fasting," she said. Sibert recently fasted for six days protesting the killing of innocent youth in Detroit.

Sibert presided over a prayer breakfast at Bethel A.M.E. Church in Detroit in April. Detroit councilman Rev. John Peoples made the introductions which included Mother Waddles of the Perpetual Mission, Fr. Bill Cunningham of FOCUS HOPE, Rosa Parks, Bishop Moses Abraham, one of only two black Catholic bishops in the country and many others.

And this past Christmas, she convinced more than a dozen of the top chefs in the metro area to provide their best gourmet meals for less fortunate at a Cass Corridor soup kitchen. "Let them experience some really good food for a change," she said.

As a young girl, Sibert was stricken with polio at the age of 18 months. Her left side was left paralyzed. "I did eventually recover but was plagued with various illnesses throughout my life. When I was 23, and pregnant with my first child, doctors thought I might have breast cancer. I wanted a second opinion. From that point on I decided to be healthy and responsible for my body. I changed my diet. Before this time I was a lousy cook," she explained.

Since then, however, Sibert polished her craft to perfection. She studied nutrition and cooking at home, school and in seminars throughout the country. For 10 years, she taught nutritional cooking at Fordson High School in Dearborn.

Sibert was born in Detroit 36 years ago, the oldest of eight children. She attended Marygrove College and the University of Detroit. She and husband, Calvin, have been married 15 years. They have a daughter Nezu-la, 13, and a son, Calvin, 10. They have lived in Romulus for 10 years.

Calvin Sr. works as an engineer at Fords.

"The Healthy Cook" airs at 9 a.m. every Tuesday on Channel 62. Sibert has demonstrated original vegetarian recipes on the program since she began seven years ago.

She often writes a guest column for magazines, some with international readership. She offers reflective bits of wisdom in a three-minute program entitled, "Gwen's Thought for Today," featured every Tuesday at noon on WGPR 107 FM. "Good nutrition helps our body go a long way. Most of my recipes are original. I improvise a lot. Cooking is like life, the more you put into it, the more you can expect out of it. You have to do what's necessary," she said.

"I Couldn't Sleep... I Was Tired All Of The Time."

I was suffering from sinus trouble and had a hard time getting to sleep. I had to get up early for work, so I was tired all of the time. My mother suggested I try a chiropractor, so I figured what do I have to lose. Well after 4 days of treatment I started falling asleep faster and a short time after that my sinus problem was getting better. I am now sleeping normal hours and feeling great. I will go to Dr. Gregg's clinic from now on!

"No Stiffness Or Pain!"

I came to the Gregg clinic for lower back pain that was unbearable. After several treatments the pain started to go away and I was able to get a good nights sleep. Not only that but my neck pain, that medics said I would have to live with because of arthritis, also went away. You can't imagine what a relief it is to turn my head with no stiffness or pain. I am beginning to think Chiropractic is God's way to healing, not pills, cutting or long recoveries.

The Tigers are having all kinds of problems on the diamond these days. Coach John Bertz's club blew a four-run lead and dropped a Wolverine 'A' Conference game to Lincoln Park on Friday then, on Saturday, lost a slugfest with natural rival, Ypsilanti, at the Ann Arbor Invitational. The story and more photos are on Page 3-C.

Romulus '9' wins title at Annapolis

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

This was the week that Coach Dennis Stoh and his Romulus Eagles have been waiting for all season.

Winless in their first five outings, the Eagles squelched a last inning rally by Annapolis to capture their second Dearborn Heights baseball invitational title at the expense of their host, 7-6. It was Romulus's second championship in four tournament appearances.

Reliever Keith Brothers, who gave up a two-strike, two-run homer to Jim Stafford in the last inning, got out of trouble by striking out the final man who faced him. In fact, Brothers fanned five batters in the last two frames.

"He (Brothers) put out the fire, but he also added to it," said Stoh whose club entered the week of action with a 5-8 won-lost record. "We knew that it was only a matter of time before this team was going to put it together. And the time came at the tournament."

Steve Hoinka, a junior right-hander, was given the tough assignment to stop Annapolis in the championship game. Hoinka, staked to a 7-1 lead, departed from the battle in the fifth when the Cougars struck for three runs and narrowed the margin to 7-4. But he was credited with the win.

Stoh replaced his starter with Brothers who got the Cougars out in the sixth with little difficulty, but he had his problems in the last frame and kept the outcome of the game in doubt right to the end.

Romulus put three runs on the scoreboard in the second and third innings and scored what proved to be the winning run in the fourth when Brothers's sacrifice fly chased home Brian Newcomb.

Joe Schuster and Keith Wojtylko hammered two long homers in the third inning. Schuster's was a solo blast while Wojtylko got his with Brothers aboard.

In the preliminary game, Romulus eliminated Lutheran West from its path 9-4 as Steve Malgay chalked up his third victory of the campaign on a six-hitter. Malgay notched 11 strikeouts and walked none in twirling a six-hitter.

However, Lutheran West appeared as if it was going to send Malgay to the showers early as Malgay gave up a double, single and then a three-run homer to Jeff Rittholder in the opening inning.

Malgay then settled down and managed to scatter three other hits throughout the rest of the game.

The Eagles came back and scored twice in the bottom of the first, went ahead 4-3 in the second and added a single run in the third before erupting for three runs in the fifth to seal the victory.

"I felt that the kids really played well in this tournament," Stoh said. "The victories showed that our club has not given up. The kids played hard."

During the week, Romulus swept a doubleheader from Lutheran West. The Eagles won a 7-4 decision behind Hoinka's eight-hit pitching effort and then came back for the sweep with Malgay chalking up a 15-3 victory.

In the first game Kevin Farris and Newcomb accounted for two hits each and Malgay connected for a two-run homer in the sixth.

Malgay helped his own cause in the nightcap as he singled, doubled and drove in five of the 15 runs. Treg Gilsdorf chipped in with three hits.

Ypsilanti, the defending Class A state champ, stopped Romulus 10-3, while undefeated Adrian escaped the Eagles' claws 8-6 as a two-run error helped the winners. Ann Arbor Huron fell to Stoh's Eagles 8-7.

Romulus is at home today, hosting Fordson.

Belleville, Romulus to run in Wayne Invitational

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Thirteen high school boys and girls track teams will take to the field on Saturday for the 1987 Wayne Memorial Invitational.

The teams and the athletes will be competing in 16 events, beginning at 10 a.m., according to Joe Grasley, head coach at Wayne High.

"We believe we have an excellent lineup of local and area teams competing in this year's invitational," Grasley said. "Fans will not be disappointed by the caliber of competition."

Teams representing Ann Arbor Huron, Westland John Glenn, St. Martin DePorres, Highland Park, Belleville, Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton, Trenton, Dearborn Heights Robichaud, Romulus, Garden City and Crestwood have accepted the invitation to compete in this year's meet.

According to Grasley, Ypsilanti appears to have the potential strength to finish ahead of the pack.

"However, Salem always fields a respectable team and John Glenn has a lot of talent, and we like to think we have a shot at the title as well," Grasley said.

There is a $2 admission charge.

In the meantime, Wayne Memorial remained undefeated on the season as the Zebras galloped past Fordson 85 1/2 to 40 1/2 in a Wolverine 'A' Conference meet. Earlier in the week Wayne turned back natural rival, Westland John Glenn, 77-51.

Wayne swept 12 of the 16 events against the Tractors of Fordson with Tony Adams and Cory Wilson each winning a pair of events and also participating on winning relays.

Adams captured a first in the 100-meters dash (11.6), ran a 40.5 in the 300-meter hurdles and was on the winning 1600-meter relay team that also included Chris Wooley, Todd Reiber, and Derrick Allen. The winning time was posted as 3:43.3.

Wilson crossed the finish line first for the 110-meter high hurdles (16.3) and won the 400-meter dash in 52.9 and then teamed with Jeron Bradley, Byron Nolan and Dave Rodriguez to win the 800-meter relay with a 1:35.2.

Dave King accounted for Wayne victories in the shot put (45 feet, 11) and the discus (136 feet, 11). Other Wayne winners included Bernard Higgins, in the long jump (19 feet, 6); Wendell Smith, in the high jump (5 feet, 8); Rodriguez, in the 800-meter run (2:06.9); and the 3000 meter relay with a lineup that included Derrick Allen, Todd Reiber, Ken Szymanski and David Richards. The foursome was clocked in 8:40.3.

The field and the two hurdling events were the keys that opened Wayne's door to victory against Glenn, according to Grasley.

"We felt that the field events would be extremely critical and we received some excellent performances specifically from our discus and shot putters that helped turn the tide in our favor," Grasley said. Wayne outscored the Westlanders 12-6 in the two pivotal events.

Wayne dominated the hurdles as the Zebras, led by Julio Desir, took the first three places in the 110-meter high, and also placed 1-2 in the 300 lows with Adams and Steve Herndon therefore claiming 17 out of a possible 18 points in those two events.

One-hitter

Way continues torrid pitching pace

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

The way Ron Way is pitching in the season, came back on Friday to fire a one-hitter in chalking up a 5-0 shutout victory over conference foe, Wyandotte.

Way, who tossed a perfect game against Belleville earlier in the season, came back on Friday to fire a one-hitter in chalking up a 5-0 shutout victory over conference foe, Wyandotte.

Going into the seventh inning, the hard-throwing Wayne hurler had a no-hitter. Then, up steps Brian Lynn to the plate and ruins Way's bid for the no-hitter by stroking a single.

"Although the hit spoiled Ron's bid for a no-hitter," noted Wayne Memorial Coach Jim Chronowski. "I don't believe it took anything away from his great pitching performance."

Way again looked formidable as he whiffed 16 and walked four in pitching Wayne to its fifth consecutive Wolverine 'A' Conference win and their 10th victory in 12 outings this season.

After a scoreless opening inning, Wayne got their ace hurler a run in the second inning when Doug Florn worked losing pitcher Steve Osborne for a base on balls. Florn moved to second when Ron Wojewski also drew a walk, Bob Dalton moved the runners up a base with a sacrifice. Florn managed to score on a passed ball.

Wayne erupted for four runs in the top of the third inning as Way helped his own cause with a two-run homer that sounded the knell for Osborne. The Bruin hurler gave up a leadoff double to Ken Dropiewski, who advanced to third on a ground-out. That brought up Way, who blasted the ball deep into right field.

The Zebras hadn't finished their scoring yet against their hosts as Florn then walked and Wojewski doubled him home. Wayne scored what proved to be its final run of the ball game when Joe Gossett singled home Wojewski.

Wayne had a date with Monroe last night to determine which would remain atop of the conference hill. Both apparently went into the showdown with identical records.

On Thursday, the Zebras will host Southgate Anderson for a doubleheader before the seniors take a weekend off for their prom.

Belleville gets by Southgate

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Bouncing back from their first setback of the 1987 track & field season, Belleville High's Tigers outdistanced Southgate Anderson 68-60 to pad their Wolverine 'A' Conference record to 3-1 on the year.

Coach Dave McCarney's thinclads captured nine of the 16 first-place positions, and they dominated the field events thanks to Deon Ford and Jeff Borders.

Ford finished first in both the long jump with a leap of 18 feet, 9 1/2 inches and he also successfully negotiated 6 feet to pick up a second victory in the field events. In the meantime, teammate Borders had a put of 42 feet, 4 inches and a toss of 131 feet, 4 1/2 inches in the discus for his double win.

The Tiger two-mile relay team also contributed a first thanks to the efforts of Gary Griffin, Brian Koch, Rob Priebe and Bob Gray who were clocked in 9:41.

Koch came back for a 5-minute run to claim a first in the mile and Belleville put the winning 440-yard relay team on the track as Calvin Alexander, James Hicks, Mike Gentry and Garrett Clark churned a 46.5.

Belleville's other win was in the low hurdles where Greg Hardmon crossed the finish line in 42.3.

After clashing with the undefeated conference champ, Wayne Memorial, last night Belleville heads for Wyandotte on Thursday for its next conference duel. On Saturday, the Tigers will join a score of other local and area prep teams to compete in the prestigious Wayne Memorial Invitational.

Beyer is 'Rookie of the Year'

On the ice or in the classroom, Todd Beyer, former Westland John Glenn all-around athlete is a flaming comet.

Beyer, a 1984 graduate of John Glenn High School, accepted a scholarship to the University of Illinois at Chicago last June after skating three years in the Great Lakes Junior Hockey League where he was a member of the 1984-85 Junior "A" National Championship Team.

After being picked to finish eighth (of nine) teams in the league in preseason coaches' polls, the UIC Flames finished in fourth place, their best season ever.

During the Flames' annual awards banquet, Beyer was presented a "Scholastic Award" for the member of the UIC hockey team who excels in the classroom as well as on the ice. Todd's credentials included a 4.2 grade point average (on a 5.0 scale).

Beyer was also the recipient of the "Rookie of the Year" award, given to the freshman who displays "enthusiasm, sportsmanship, team spirit and loyalty to the UIC hockey program and the university. The recipient was the freshman's club leading scorer with 13 goals and 16 assists. He was on the penalty team (rated No.1 in the nation), the power play team and skated a regular shift for the Flames.

Beyer also shared in another prestigious award.

The Mark Nordling Memorial Award presented in memory of Mark Nordling, a member of the Flames who passed away in 1983, is presented to the member of the UIC hockey team whose devotion to the college hockey has repeatedly been evidenced by aggressive and spirited play and by selfish contribution to the total team effort, usually awarded to an individual, was presented to the eight members of the freshman class. Beyer also shared in this award.

Huron runners suffer 1st loss

All good things apparently must come to an end.

And New Boston Huron's two meet winning streak came to an abrupt end last Thursday as the Chiefs dropped an 83-48 track & field conference decision to Monroe Jefferson.

Earlier, Huron had presented first year head coach Kevin Rousch an opening day victory over Southgate Aquinas (69-61). The Chiefs launched the conference phase of the campaign with an impressive 83-43 triumph over the Islanders of Grosse Ile.

"We have a lot of kids out for this year's team," said Rousch who replaced Gary McGuire and Michael Bracken as head coach. "And I feel that we are going to have a pretty decent year because there is a mixture of youth and experience on this year's club."

Huron managed to take three out of the possible 16 first-place berths against Jefferson. Steve Bartlett led the quartermilers to the wire as he covered the distance in the winning time of 53.5.

Huron also chalked up a victory in the discus thanks to the performance of Trevor Miller, whose toss landed at the 121 feet, 3 inch marker.

Tom Rich accounted for the final win as he toured the mile in 5:08.1.

Rousch and the Chiefs will return to conference competition on Thursday when they travel to Airport. They were scheduled to meet Carlson last night.

In that cloud of dust above is a sliding and unidentified Belleville ball player who manages to make it to third. Tigers continue baseball skid

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Blowing a four-run lead, Belleville continued its baseball skid as Lincoln Park rallied to edge Coach John Bertz's Tigers 6-5 in a Wolverine 'A' Conference game on Friday.

The Tigers failed to snap out of their doldrums on Saturday in Ann Arbor where they lost their invitational tournament opener to a rejuvenated Ypsilanti 11-9. Ypsi is the defending Class A state champs.

"It's been a heartbreaking season for all of us," noted Bertz whose club has sunk to a 4-9 record. "It isn't as if we don't have the opportunity to win - we do - then we go and blow it on some dumb play or miscue."

Steve O'Harris, who went the distance against the Parkers was charged with the loss. He relieved starter Mike Sawinski who worked the first three innings before Bertz decided on a pitching change.

Belleville jumped to a 2-0 first inning lead when Steve Ostrowski opened up the game with a single and raced home with Bill Ashley connected for a homer.

The Tigers will take a 1-4 conference record into today's doubleheader with Trenton.

"We have shown that we can play with anyone in the conference and the area," Bertz said. "What we need is a couple of good wins under our belts so that we can head into the stretch with confidence."

In tournament play, Ashley got an inside the park homer and three singles and Jeff Budd latched on to two hits which all were wasted as the state champs rallied to an 11-9 victory.

Belleville will make a return trip to Ann Arbor on Saturday to take on Clinton in a 9 a.m. game.

Glenn elects captains

Westland John Glenn has decided who they want to captain the football team during the 1987 campaign.

Coach Chuck Gordon's Rockets named Mark Bauschat, a defensive end; Kurt Kuban, a linebacker and last year's leading tackler, and Chris Scheffer, a tackle, as their 1987 captains.

Smith sinks Islanders

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Staking their senior right-hander Mike Smith to seven runs in the first two innings, New Boston Huron humbled Grosse Ile's Islanders 10-7 for their fourth conference victory in six starts this season.

And the four victories represent three more conference wins than the Chiefs managed all last year. They were 1-13 in the Huron Conference during the 1986 campaign.

"The kids believe in themselves," said coach Jon LaBeau. "Baseball has become fun once again around these parts."

Smith fanned 13 and walked only one en route to his second triumph of the conference year. John Malnar, who lasted until the fifth when the Islanders brought in Tom Vance, was charged with the loss.

In a game marred by miscues - Huron had four and Grosse Ile had five errors - the Chiefs jumped on Malnar for four runs in the first inning as Rick Gubbini led off with a double and advanced to third when Jeff Debozy made it to third after the catcher allowed a third strike elude him. Debozy proceeded to steal second and with runners on second and third, Rick Kozlowski's ground out scored the first Huron run, then Smith aided his own cause when he stroked a run-producing single. After another passed ball and error produced two more runs, the Chiefs had a comfortable 4-0 margin.

They padded that margin with three more runs in the second and added three more in the fourth.

Smith had a two-run homer in the second inning and also two other hits while Gubbini doubled and singled. Andy Jackson and Dan Porter also checked in with a pair of hits apiece.

Monroe Catholic Central managed to elude upset-minded Huron 5-4 in an earlier conference confrontation. The Chiefs have not beaten MCC on the diamond in the last decade.

This time around Huron had its opportunities as they build a 3-0 and 4-1 lead but couldn't hang on as Monroe scored what proved to be the winning run in the last of the seventh on a leadoff double by Tim Mario and three walks.

John Page, a southpaw junior, who was in control until that decisive seventh, suffered the loss. He had a career high 16 strikeouts while walking four (two intentionally in the final inning to load the bases).

Joe Miedinger, who also notched 12 strikeouts and issued three walks, earned the victory. Miedinger gave up a two-run homer to Jeff Debozy with Gubbini aboard.

The Chiefs grabbed the lead in the second inning when Page and Smith drilled solid singles and moved up on Jackson's sacrifice. John Umin's sacrifice bunt scored the first run of the game.

Huron put their first run on the scoreboard in the fifth thanks to Umin's sacrifice fly after Debozy again was safe on a third-strike error, he advanced to third on a passed ball and stole base.

LaBeau's club has a busy schedule this week as they travel to Monroe Jefferson today, then clash with league-leader Riverview at that downriver community tomorrow and return home for a rematch with Grosse Ile on Friday.

Straub 'is perfect'

Maybe it wasn't a perfect, but there were no hits as Westland John Glenn's junior right-hander Clint Straub throttled Livonia Stevenson, 7-0, Monday for his first career no-hitter.

Straub also chalked up 15 strikeouts.

Stevenson's pitcher, Steven Laude, was equally adept as he stifled Glenn's batters until the third inning when Chad Mena led off with a walk. With two out, Straub also drew a base on balls. Mike Hammtreee sliced a double down the right field line and Mena scored to make it 1-0.

Straub made that slim lead stand up with the help of a double play and his own clutch pitching, sandwiching three strikeouts around a pair of walks in the fourth inning.

Glenn made it 3-0 in the fifth when Pat Pettit led off with a single and was sacrificed to second by Tom Walker. With two out, Hammtreee lashed a run-scoring single to right and Rick Tavormina dropped one into left off the shortstop's glove for another run.

Straub walked the bases loaded in the sixth but fought off the Spartans with a pair of strikeouts and a fly to right.

When two men held up employees at a Supermarket Drugs, the employees played it cool and cooperated with the gunmen.

And victims as well as eyewitnesses to holdups and armed robberies can aid law enforcement officers if they would follow some simple guidelines, according to Inkster Police Chief James Buckley.

"First of all there is nothing in a store worth losing," Buckley stressed. "Most of us are concerned about our money, but if you get yourself killed, you lose it all."

Although armed and assault have been with society since the beginning of time, law enforcement officers are better equipped than ever to fight criminals, Buckley said. "We do have the police techniques and knowledge to fight criminals, although people may disagree."

commemorates 'Sesquicentennial'

It was a solemn occasion. An occasion to reminisce and pause to honor this great state of Michigan.

It is, after all, Michigan's 150th birthday.

And, though the numbers were few, the local, city and state officials along with Inkster citizens turned out on a cold wintry day to honor the state in a special "Sesquicentennial" ceremony.

The program was sponsored by the Inkster Library and Historical Commission and featured readings of historic significance to the state.

"I believe everyone who participated realized that this state is a great one and it is great because of the people who have lived and are living here," said Leanna Hicks, chairperson and mistress of the ceremonies.

"Michigan is blessed for its lakes and its natural resources," she continued, "but we must never forget that it is the people who make this state great. People working and liv-

The participants also heard remarks from Joseph Davis Jr., mayor pro tem, and councilman Stephen Berry who read the official bill that proclaimed Michigan a member of the United States.

Others who were featured on the historical program included singer Richard Humphrey, the invocation was by Rev. Larry O. Hines, while Christopher Horn skipped school so that he could lead the rally in "the pledge of allegiance."

Raising the Sesquicentennial Flag were Larry Pado and Chris Reiley, members of Explorers Post No. 1896.

Captured by cable

Barden seeks to educate by marketing

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

Tuning into cable TV is something John Barden hopes every area resident will start doing on a regular basis. But Barden won't be totally satisfied until his subscribers watch, shop and depend upon the services his companies provides each and every day of the year.

Barden was recently named marketing manager of the three Barden Cablevision systems in Inkster, Romulus and Van Buren Township. A four-year "veteran" of the company his brother, Don, started in 1981. Barden has big plans for the local cable TV scene.

"My job is to make people aware of what cable is doing, what it now can offer people. A lot of people think cable is only movies. I want to change that," explained Barden.

From home-shopping networks, weather channels, music television and local programming to pay-per-view movies and blockbuster, box-office hits, Barden can list for hours the benefits of local cable television. His job now, however, is to give the viewers at home that same ability, he said.

What began as a small cable system in the city of Inkster with about 4,000 subscribers in 1983 has now blossomed into the Barden Communications organization with more than 9,000 subscribers in western Wayne County alone. Barden said. In addition, the growing city of Detroit franchise the Barden family can sign their name to has made the firm one of continuing change and re-evaluation. One area under constant scrutiny. Barden said, is the marketing program and how to make it work.

business profile

"To market cable, you have to do it demographically. You have to target it to the wants of the people," Barden explained. "But, above all, when you sell cable, you have to know your product."

Knowing the product and targeting demographics aren't terms the 38-year-old Inkster native and Romulus resident had to study hours to comprehend. Nevertheless, Barden's list of academic credentials is highlighted by a marketing degree from Western Michigan University, a diploma from Inkster High School and related experience from his former position with the Ford Motor Company.

But even the textbooks never mentioned things like a travel television channel, home shopping network or M-TV. Barden said. These types of specialized skills of his business came with experience, experience at climbing the ladder of cable television success for more than four years.

"I see the cable television business as here to stay. You'll always have competitors, and they are important to know," Barden said. "But there are a lot of good things in cable still on the way."

And who gave the Inkster-boy-made-good his intellect, drive and dedication? According to Barden, it's all in the genes.

John Barden

Wage proposal prompts debate

Local legislatures and unions disagree with the Chamber of Commerce about a proposed law to increase minimum wages among residents in their districts.

United States Congressman William Ford represents the 15th district in western Wayne County and is a co-sponsor of the bill. He noted the proposal would offer some families a chance to stay above the poverty line.

"Years ago, an entry level job with minimum wage was a step-up for struggling individuals, a chance to increase his or her standard of living. But today, the present minimum wage offers no incentive. To change minimum wage guidelines would be sound economic policy," said Ford who is the ranking majority member in the Committee on Education and Labor.

The proposed increase would increase hourly minimum wages from $3.35 to $4.65 over a period of three years beginning Jan. 1, 1988. Senator Edward Kennedy introduced the new legislation.

United State Senator Carl Levin from Michigan noted minimum wages have not increased since 1981 and have remained the same for the longest period of time since World War II.

The minimum wage is currently established at 38 percent of the average hourly wage. Originally, this was 50 percent of the average. The minimum would provide enough money to support and keep a family of three above the poverty level which is now established at an annual income of less than $7,000.

Levin is aware and concerned about Michigan workers and their decreasing wages. "It's a question of balancing what's right," he said.

The bill was introduced in March and after a number of scheduled hearings are completed, passage of the bill could be sometime this summer, noted Ford.

The Small Business Association of Michigan is "basically opposed to it," said Marsha Bradford, community relations director.
